CCI Honored with Gold Ink Award for Excellence in Print

HARTLAND, WI – October 25, 2006 – Commercial Communications, Inc. (CCI) received industry recognition for excellence in product quality when it was recently awarded a Gold Ink Award. Co-sponsored by Print Media and Printing Impressions, the awards are recognized as the nation's most prestigious print competition. CCI received a Pewter Award in the Manuals category for the Invensys Key Selling Points Binder.

"We are pleased to receive this award and be recognized with some of the most respected and influential creators of printed work in the country. This recognition affirms the quality of our work and level of dedication we commit to each of our clients," said Brent Hegwood, President and COO.

The Gold Ink Awards competition, now in its 19th year, has earned the reputation for attracting the highest quality of work from printing professionals throughout North America. Open to all creators and producers of printed material, this year's Gold Ink Award winners were chosen from nearly 1,500 entries submitted within 45 distinctive categories. A panel of distinguished professionals including graphic artists, production managers and print buyers evaluated entries on print quality, technical difficulty and overall visual effectiveness.

Winners were honored at the Gold Ink Banquet and Hall of Fame Gala on October 16th and are highlighted in the October issues of Publishing Executive and Printing Impressions magazines.
